Washington, June 25.—President tailed for the purpose of assessing the Tatt's much heraided corporation tax plan was presented to the senate toplan was presented to the senate to-day by Mr. Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee, and was ordered printed as a committee amendment to the tariff bill. If schedules are com-pleted by Monday the corporation amendment will then be taken up and held before the senate until final diseld before the senate until final disposition is made of it and of amend-ments on the subject of a direct tax

Designated as "The Taft Plan." In general form the corporation tax measure follows the outline given by the Associated Press after the con-ference at the White house on Tues-day night when the subject was considered by the president, lawyers of his cabinet and senate and house and republican leaders. As drafted by Atrepublican leaders. As drafted by Attorney General Wickersham and Senator Root, the measure is believed to be amendment proof, and an effort will be made to put it through congress unchanged. It will be designated as "The Taft plan," the weight of the presidents name being dependent upon largely to encompass its ened upon largely to encompass its en-

What the Measure Proposes. Briefly stated, the plan proposes a tax of two per cent, upon the net earchings of every corporation, joint stock company, or association organized for profit and baying a capital stock represented by shares, and every insur-ance company organized under the laws of the United States or of any state, territory or district, or organ-fized under the laws of any foreign country and engaged in business in the United States.

Exemption of $5,000 of Earnings. BRIDGE PROPOSITION Little Question of the Passage of the Bill.

(Special to The Bulletin.) Hartford, June 24.-Senator Day and Captain Hamilton have been putting in some heavy licks on the Old Lyme-Old Saybrook bridge proposition during the day today and the result is that at the close of the senate session they had the satisfaction of seeing the bill providing for this bridge pass the senate, and the future, which had looked very black when they came to Hartford this morning, looked a lot brighter. The appropriations committee decided in executive session the first of this week to report this matter unfavorably or the ground that the state was so put to it to obtain money for the necessary appropriations which must be made at this session as to be unable to find the busy when they learned this and Ser ator Day disregarded a very important engagement for this afternoon to come to Hartford on the matter, though he was able to get away from the capitol in time to keep it finally. ine plan was to table the matter when the unfavorable report was made this morning, but there was so much support for the proposition that this was found not to be necessary. The committee on roads, rivers and bridges reported this bill favorably before it was sent to the committee on appropriations. to the committee on appropriations and was very anxious to pa- it pass. When it was brought up in the senate today by Senator Blakeslee, chairman of the appropriations committee, he made the unfavorable report, though he regretted to do this because he was on the commission which went into this matter between sessions and reported in favor of a bridge and is personally very anxious that there should be a

(9) Not income after making the issue of $500,000 for the financing the project. Under the terms of h elieved the time had come when such a bridge was a necessity and would prove a decided economy to the state and the towns. Senator Manwaring suggested that it might be that more than one trolley company would want to use the bridge and asked if it might not be a good plan for the state to construct trolley tracks across the bridge when it is built and thus own bridge when it is built and thus own the tracks and lease the use of them to trolley companies which might desire it. This was held to be a good suggestion and the favor with which the senate received it led to the tabling of the messure until Senator Manwaring could draft an amendment which would provide for this.

When he had done this he called the bill from the table and offered his amendment which provides that the amendment, which provides that the construction of these trolley tracks shall be a part of the construction of the bridge and the state shall thereafter lease the use of them at a reasonable annual rental. The senate sex county members have considerable strength, and by that county and New London county standing together there will be presente da front which should ensure the passage of the bill. It is figured that the proceeds from a toll bridge would grow so much larger than those from the present Old Lyme-Old Saybrook ferry, which last year took in some $7,000, that there will be no question of the ability of the bridge to pay the interest on these bonds, and in addition establish a sinking fund which will go far toward finally paying off the bonds; if, indeed, it doesn't do this the bonds; if, indeed, it doesn't do this entirely, as the members from that section believe it will.

Boston, June 24.—The great heat wave which hung over the east since the first of the week was more oppresthe first of the week was more oppressive today than at any time during the present period of high temperatures. In New England a dozen deaths and upwards of 100 prostrations during the day and evening are chargeable to the hot blast. In Boston there were two deaths and fifty prostrations from early morning until a late hour tonight. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the government instrument on top of the high Federal buildinf, recorded a temperature of 94. The mercury did not

New Britain, June 25.—George A. Shenshau, 35 years old, committed suicide tonight by hanging himself with his suspenders in a cell at police headquarters. Shenshau, who is a res-ident of this place, became suddenly deranged yesterday, and was taken in

of this state. But by taking his fate into his own hands the man known here as Emmet E. Roberts, but who in failed member of the Consolidated ex-change of New York, and who was accused of the murder, passed beyond the reach of the law, and with his going there vanished the hope of clearing up the motive and details of the crime.

A letter found upon Eastman's body A letter found upon Eastman's body addressed to Miss Vinnie Bradcome, care of Klaw & Erianger the theatrical managers in New York, gave Eastman's poorly substantiated denial of the crime. It was a rambling account of how he had been out in a launch with a party of men and women, all of whom had been drinking to excess with the exception of himself and Mrs. Woodill; how one of the few women a fit of jections francy had attached. in a fit of jealous frenzy had attached Mrs. Woodill with a wine bottle and killed her: how the remainder of the party had taken flight, leaving him to dispose of the body, and how as a means of escape from all of his troubles the writer had decided to met him. the writer had decided to end his life

Authorities Scout Letter's Contents. The authorities have cast aside this theory of the death of the girl. The first word received from Miss Bradcome today conveyed the somewhat baffling information that she knew nothing of a Mr. Roberts of Eastman. The coroner wired Miss Bradeome to come and take possession of the body, however, and received a reply from her saying she could not because of lack of funds. He has now wired her him and possibly frightened by his at-tentions. In a note addressed to "Dear Wobby," declining to see him at the particular time, but not stishing to anger him, she said: "It is only an in-termittent delirium, anyhow, and you had better so and 'wash your dishes." had better go and 'wash your dishes.'

Two Strange Careers Ended. The meeting of Eastman and Mrs. Woodill, whenever and wherever it occurred, brought together two oddly ulted figures, and the tragedy brough but a girl. Vivacious and petite, weigning only about 100 pounds. Where the girl sprang from, who her father was,
and what should have been her proper station in life are clothed with much of the same mystery which surrounded the details of her death.
